NEW HUNT FOR HORST CHILD TURNS TO CITY

Special State Investigator
Sought Woman in Mansfield
Believed Linked to Case.

CHECKS ON NEW CLUES

Reveal Inquiry Ordered By Governor; Boy Disappeared
in 1928 at Age 4.

Disclosure today that the state welfare department has been investigating the 12-year-old disappearance of Melvin Horst, brought out the fact that a special investigator had been in Mansfield within the past month searching for a woman believed to be linked in the case.

Mansfield police said the investigator, whose name they did not learn, was accompanied by Mayor C. Wylie Williamson of Orrville, and was in Mansfield March 8 checking information concerning the mysterious kidnapping, which took place on Dec. 27, 1928, when the Horst boy was four years old.

Although he did not disclose his findings to officers here, it was learned that the investigator was searching for a woman, whom he said was formerly connected with bootleg operations in that vicinity and was believed to be residing in Mansfield. He carried pictures of several suspects.

Ordered In September.

At Columbus Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood said Gov. John W. Bricker had ordered the investigation last September after Mayor Williamson and Sheriff Ed Mills of Wayne county went to Columbus seeking help in checking information they had concerning the kidnapping.

Sherwood said the governor "instructed us to leave no stone unturned" in a search for the boy.

"We have investigated several leads, but have uncovered nothing concrete," Sherwood said.

"We have no evidence yet to show that the boy is either alive or dead."

The director said some information on the whereabouts of the boy, who now would be about 18 years old, led investigators into other states including Illinois.

"We posted watches on places where, it was rumored he might be, but they were fruitless," he added.

Spring Blizzard In N. Y. Stalls This Train

Heavy snowstorms forced this train, the Montreal-bound, to stall in huge snowdrifts in the Laurentian mountains. The blizzard swept upper New York state and Canada. A fine, powdery snow and a slight fall in temperatures lessened the flood menace today but hampered the efforts of crews seeking to clear drifted highways and reach isolated communities. The temperature drop during the night checked a sudden thaw.

SON OF TRAFFIC VICTIM DIES OF CRASH INJURIES

J. W. Ernsberger, 25, Succumb 2 Months After Parent Was Fatally Hurt.

Almost two months to the day that his father died from injuries in a traffic accident, James Woodrow Ernsberger, 25, of 42 Elizabeth street, succumbed at 5:15 p. m. Tuesday in General hospital of injuries suffered in an accident early Saturday on route 42, near Cardington.

Young Ernsberger died of a fractured skull, and without regaining consciousness, hospital attendants said. He also suffered fractures of his right foot.

He was injured about 6 a. m. Saturday when his car struck a cement abutment near Cardington as he was returning to Mansfield from Columbus. It is believed that he fell asleep while driving. He was alone in the car, members of his family said.

His father, Reuben Ernsberger, 72, died Jan. 28 in a Fremont hospital of internal injuries suffered when his car and one driven by a Pemberville, O., motorist collided near Fremont as Mr. and Mrs. Ernsberger were en route to Holland, Mich. Mrs. Ernsberger received minor injuries. Mr. Ernsberger was one of two persons killed.

MARKET SPURTS

Buying Wave Sweeps Steels, Motors $1 to $4 Higher.

NEW YORK — (AP) — A brisk wave of buying swept the stock market today, showing favored securities $1 to $4 a share higher. Leading the climb were steels, motors and soft drinks shares while the recently favored aircrafts increased their gains by small amounts.

The rally had its origin in action of directors of United States Steel Corp. which yesterday surprised Wall street with the declaration of a $1 share dividend on the common stock, the first since 1937.

Buying orders in steels were awaiting brokers when the market opened today. U. S. Steel quickly rose $3.50 from yesterday's close of $54.38 a share. Bethlehem Steel climbed $3.00 to $77. Youngstown went above $40.25 from $38.12.

PROBE FINDING OF HUMAN HEAD

Newark Coroner Says Man Was Killed in Fight or Accident.

NEWARK, O. — (AP) — Dr. P. C. Keller, acting coroner, declared today that markings on a human head found in a roadside ditch indicated fatal injury in a "fight or accident."

"There was a blow on the vertex of the skull and a hole in the right cheek," Dr. Keller said.

The head, saved crudely from the body of a colored man several weeks ago, was found yesterday in an earthenware crock beside the Martinsburg road, three miles north of here, by Charles Lederer, county highway worker.

Solons Go to 'School,' Learn City Problems

Officials Lay Cards on Table at Staff Meeting In Move to 'Create Mutual Understanding' Among Heads.

City councilmen went to "school" last night when they were invited to sit in on a "staff meeting" of city service and safety departments at the City building.

The meeting was arranged by C. M. Crafton, safety-service director, for the purpose of "creating mutual understanding of city problems" between councilmen, who must dig up the money to operate the city, and department heads who are responsible for enforcing safety measures.

Attending the meeting were Mayor W. J. Locke, Crafton, Police Chief Meade K. Bates, Fire Chief Charles Seeburger, and the majority of council members.

Three of the most important problems which were discussed were the need of increasing the power of the two-way police radio system; the work of the identification bureau, and the ever-present traffic problem.

Bates cited the need for increased radio power from 50 to 100 watts. He said that with the present wattage it is impossible for the city police to broadcast messages to sheriffs or state patrol cars in the country, and that on a case where all roads and highways are being watched, it is frequently necessary to work with officers in rural sections.

Mayor Howard S. Lutz, who had proposed the removal of Clark when he took the chief executive's office Jan. 1, supported the measure, rather than submit the entire question to a popular vote, on the grounds the latter move would be too costly.

Clark had circulated petitions, on which he claimed more than enough signatures, demanding a popular vote on the question of abolishing the salary and authority of the fire chief.

Council had passed such an ordinance earlier in the year, the measure becoming effective March 28.

FARLEY PRAISES NEW DEAL ACTS

But Says Not a Word About His Own Presidential Candidacy.

BANGOR, Me. — (AP) — Lavinia in his praise of the administration's record, but without a word of his own presidential aspirations or those of any other Democrat. Postmaster General James A. Farley today prophesied another national victory for his party "if we stand united and work together."

Farley's nearest approach to what might be interpreted as a reference to the 1940 nomination fight came in the closing lines of a speech prepared for Maine's Democratic state convention: "We have experienced leaders to offer the country..."

New Garden Feature Coming Up!

MARY, MARY, quite contrary, how does your garden grow? And the answer is that it doesn't this kind of weather, but within a few weeks—we hope—the crocuses and the tulips will be pushing through the earth and gardeners will begin collecting the trowel, hoe and spade.

And that's why The News-Journal is certain that all gardeners—amateur or professional—will be interested in one of the two new features starting within the next few days.

Starting next Monday and running consecutively every day, except Saturdays, will be a two-part garden series. The first part will be in ten articles on what every gardener should know around planting time. These articles will be written by Robert A. Geiger of the Associated Press feature staff.

Geiger will deal with discoveries of recent years, including the new plant vitamin which does marvelous things for gardens and lawns. At the conclusion of the ten articles, the second part of the garden feature will start and this will be a series of garden-graphs by Dean Halliday, Central Press writer, whose articles have been widely read for years.

SEEK TO DRAW GERMAN FLEET INTO BATTLE

British Warships Tighten Up on Ore Blockade, Hope Nazis Will Launch Attack.

NINE DESTROYERS ON JOB

Norwegian Torpedoboat Fires Warning as Ships Are Seen In Neutral Waters.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — While British warships busied themselves with tightening the blockade against German ore imports in hope of luring the German fleet into open battle, Great Britain counted on the Royal Air Force today for yeoman service against any spread of German submarine raids.

Concentration of British destroyers and submarines in the Skagerrak, off the Danish and Norwegian coasts, was aimed primarily at cutting Germany's ore supplies from Sweden, but neutral observers saw a deeper motive.

They said that if Germany could be goaded to send out a cruiser squadron against these comparatively light forces, the British probably would have some heavy units nearby to fall upon the Germans with superior power.

The Norwegian admiralty announced last night that eight or nine British destroyers were sighted in Norwegian waters on at least two occasions last Friday, when German ships were passing the coast, and that a Norwegian torpedo boat fired a warning shot in one instance.

The Norwegian report said that country's minister to London had been instructed to make another protest of alleged violation of Norwegian waters by the British.

Vital to Germany.

The Skagerrak passage linking the North and Baltic seas, is especially important to Germany in winter, when her ore shipments from Sweden must come down the Norwegian coast.

When the ice is gone, ships can sail from Sweden to Germany inside the landlocked Baltic, where British warships have not yet penetrated and where battle operations would be hampered in any case by lack of sea room.

FIND EVIDENCE OF LOST MINE

Arizona Believed Scene of Shaft With 'Unbelievable Wealth.'

PHOENIX, Ariz. — (AP) — An abandoned Spanish gold mine of "unbelievable wealth" has been located in the Superstition mountains east of Phoenix, it was announced today by a mining engineer and a writer-adventurer.

The discovery, said Walter Upson, mining engineer, and Barry Storm, writer, was made by three prospectors in the vicinity of the legendary "Lost Dutchman" mine, said to hold untold wealth and sought after for nearly 50 years by hundreds of prospectors.

Upson said the old Spanish mine was apparently worked in the early 1800's, and contained evidences of high producing lode.

Canadian Vote OK's Liberal War Policy

Mackenzie King Wins New Mandate From People.

(By United Press)

OTTAWA, Ont. — Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King's liberal government swept the dominion in Tuesday's general election, winning a new mandate from the people on its war policy returns showed today.

The entire liberal cabinet was reelected to parliament; the leader of the conservative opposition, Dr. Robert J. (Fighting Bob) Manion, who favors intensifying the war on Germany, was defeated by Rev. Dan McIvor, Presbyterian minister, in his campaign for a seat in parliament, and it was estimated that the liberal majority in the house of commons would exceed the 131 seat majority of the last parliament, largest in Canadian history.

Calls It 'High Service.'

The prime minister, who had ordered the election Jan. 25 after his government had been denounced by conservative Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario province and the Ontario legislature for "bungling the war effort," said in a radio address last night that his party's victory was "the highest possible service to the country at this time. . . . A service to Britain and France and to those small nations whose freedom has been destroyed, threatened or imperiled."

Returns early today gave the liberals 169 of the 245 seats in the house of commons; the conservatives 34, and others 22. Twenty seats still were undetermined. In the old house, the liberals had 169, conservatives 28, and others the rest. On that basis, both major parties had gained at the expense of minorities.

KEEPS SECRETS

Woodring Explains Plan to Sell Allies Latest Planes.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary of War Harry Woodring today denied to the house military affairs committee that military secrets will be divulged in selling war planes to the allies.

He said that the war department will delay orders for its own planes, but defended this decision.

Appearing in response to fears expressed in congress that the American defense expansion program will be hampered, Woodring insisted that sales of airplanes for warring nations will promote our own national defense.

He said: "No military secret will be divulged or released to any foreign purchaser of military airplanes."

Telegram Praising Stalin For Finn Peace Treaty Held as Basis for Action.

INTERPRETED AS WARNING

Britain Adopts 'Hands Off' Policy in New Quarrel With Soviet.

(By Associated Press)

PARIS — A complete break in diplomatic relations between Soviet Russia and France appears to be foreshadowed in the recall-at French request—of the Russian ambassador to Paris.

An official spokesman charged today that France and her ally, Great Britain, were "insulted" by a telegram which the envoy, Jakob Surits, recently attempted to send to Joseph Stalin, congratulating him on the peace treaty with Finland as a stroke against "British-French warmongers."

A censor stopped the message before it could get on the wire to the Kremlin, it was disclosed in Moscow by an official account of the affair.

Even in view of the possibility of a complete rupture, there still was no indication that French military purposes would be served by declaration of a formal state of war between France and the Soviet Union.

But if Russia makes a decisive move with Germany in the Balkans that would be another matter, it was said.

As for that possibility, the French pointed to the Allied force in the Near East and the Allies' understanding with Turkey who holds the key to the Black sea in the Dardanelles. Turkey, however, is not bound to help the Allies to fight Russia.

Leaves for Moscow Soon. Surits is expected to leave Paris for Moscow within a few days. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

MAPS MESSAGE

Roosevelt to Seek New Relief Funds From Congress.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Roosevelt decided today to send a special message to congress soon incorporating recommendations for relief appropriations based on latest figures of unemployment and human needs.

No specific date was set for submission of the message, after which congress will deliberate on relief appropriations for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

In his budget message last January, Mr. Roosevelt said he believed new appropriations for WPA, the farm security administration, the civilian conservation corps and the national youth administration should be around $1,300,000,000. But he said that "if conditions fail to meet our hopes, additional funds may be necessary. I may, therefore, submit revised estimates later in the session."

Premier Chamberlain

Sir Samuel Hoare

Sir John Simon

Winston Churchill

Lord Halifax

These five men may replace the nine-man cabinet, now constituting the British government, according to London reports. A rebuilt government, concentrating power in fewer hands, would make for better efficiency in prosecuting the war, it has been suggested. The probable make-up of the new five-man cabinet includes Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax, Lord Privy Seal Sir Samuel Hoare and First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill, who would gain a greater voice in land sea and air matters. Eliminated would be four present cabinet members—War Minister Oliver Stanley, Air Minister Sir Kingsley Wood, Minister for Co-ordination of Defense Lord Chatfield and Minister Without Portfolio Lord Hankey.

impossible, however, when the boy and his friend were imprisoned in an English castle in Dublin. The escape through the network of English guards provides excitement to the end of the last page.

O'DONEL OF DESTINY, by Mary Kiely—What really hap-

REDDY KILOWATT SAYS

oh BOYS and GIRLS

here's a tip about FLYING KITES

- This is certainly swell weather for flying kites—lots of wind and everything. But here's a little tip I want to pass along to you so you won't spoil your fun.
- Never fly kites near electric lines. You know that some kite strings are made of fine wire, so if your kite string happened to come into contact with the electric wire you might be injured. Even a damp cotton string is a conductor of electricity.
- Keep away from houses, trees, and far from streets and roads. You know you can't watch your kite and traffic, too.
- If your kite darts from side to side, pull it down and add more tail. Keep a steady pull on the string at all times. If the kite begins to fall, pull in quickly.
- Don't climb trees to rescue your kite unless you are positive that the limbs are strong enough to support your weight.
- And finally, NEVER CLIMB ELECTRIC LIGHT OR TELEPHONE POLES if your kite becomes entangled in wires. I certainly do not want any of my little friends to be injured while playing. And never try to knock it down with sticks or stones—you'll ruin the kite anyway. In case of emergency be sure to call me.

WHAT PERCENTAGE OF YOUR BUSINESS DO YOU DO IN APRIL?

The National Retail Dry Goods Association says that April is one of the best retail months of the year for a great many lines. They very strongly urge all members to concentrate promotions for April selling on the fast moving items. The following national averages were compiled by NRDGA from reports from over 500 retail stores and show the percentage of the year's business in various lines done in April:

Silks—Velvets—Synthetics	9.2%	Shoes—Women and Children	10.7%
Wash Goods—Linings	9.8%	Girls' Wear	9.6%
Laces, Trimmings and Ribbons	11.7%	Women's and Misses' Coats, Suits	10.6%
Notions	8.8%	Women's and Misses' Dresses	9.4%
Neckweares and Scarfs	10.7%	Apron's, House Dresses, Uniforms	8.7%
Millinery	12.2%	Men's Clothes	8.4%
Women's, Children's Gloves	11.8%	Boys' Wear	10.7%
Corsets, Brassieres	8.8%	Men's and Boys' Shoes	8.7%
Hosiery	8.6%	Floor Coverings	9.5%
Infant's Wear	8.4%	Draperies, Lamps	9.6%
Small Leather Goods	9.8%	Housewares and Appliances	8.6%

There were five Saturdays in April last year, where this year there are but four; since Mansfield's Saturday retail volume is something like 36% of the week's total, it's going to be hard to equal last year's volume unless business is developed for some other day of the week.

Monday, at present, probably is the lowest volume day, most because of lack of promotion for this day.

New Deal Rallies Vote on Trade Program, NLRB Funds

SENDS APPEAL FOR DEMS TO STAY ON JOB

Administration Asks Senators, Representatives Not To Leave During Debate.

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON — Administration Democrats in both senate and house received unusual appeals today to stay on the job in order to outvote opponents of the reciprocal trade program and members who want to cut labor board funds.

Senator Minton, (D-IND), the Democratic whip, wrote supporters of the bill extending the trade agreements act urging them not to leave Washington during the debate. Ordinarily he delivers such requests in conversation with senators.

"The vote is so close that we cannot take the risk of any absences," his message said.

In the house, Chairman Norton (D-NJ) of the labor committee contended that forces too weak to repeal the Wagner and wage-hour laws were trying to make them inoperative by cutting appropriations for their administrative agencies.

"Unless we can get more Democrats to stay in their seats and vote," she said, "the prospects of restoring some of the proposed cuts don't look so good."

Mrs. Norton and Rep. Casey (D-Mass.) took the lead in a move to restore committee reductions of $1,080,000 in the $6,185,000 budget request for the wage-hour administration and of $337,000 in the proposed $3,180,000 for the labor board.

On a test vote late yesterday, friends of the wage-hour administration lost their first attempt to restore proposed cuts for that agency. The house rejected, 126 to 78, Mrs. Norton's request to add $140,000 to the labor department's travel expense fund.

Other fights were brewing over the appropriation committee's $85,000,000 proposal for the national youth administration—$15,000,000 below the fund for the current year and its move to eliminate 275 CCC camps and save about one-fourth of the current $294,955,000 expenditure for that purpose.

The house voted yesterday 360 to 10 in favor of a special parliamentary rule permitting consideration of the NYA appropriation. The decision was viewed as an indication that the chamber would authorize funds for the agency.

In the senate, debate on the reciprocal trade bill continued apathetically, frequently with only a dozen members in their seats.

Up and Down THE STREET

Kites will dot the sky in the Liberty park area Friday afternoon when boys of the Y. M. C. A. woodcraft shop hold a kite flying contest at the park. Kites are being made by the boys as part of their shop work, and a prize will go to the winner.

When Helen Baughman, record clerk at the city police station, returned to work last week after having been off for a week with a cold, the "boys" thought they'd kid her a little and they secured a sign from the health department which was inscribed "WHOOPIING COUGH," and hung it on her desk. And now they are wondering whether it was the power of suggestion or what, but Miss Baughman is home, sick again, and this time it's the old fashioned whooping cough.

Attorney John L. Callett, who served as announcer last night at the Junior Association of Commerce boxing tournament, introduced the boxers and thereafter identified them by calling the color of their fighting trunks. Which would have been all right if he hadn't got his colors mixed. But when he called maroon trunks "purple" it was too much for the spectators and they yelled their corrections.

Two Mansfield men who met at a luncheon table at a Mansfield restaurant discovered that both had come from the same "home town"—Louisville, Ky. The men were Tom Price, Chevy Chase road, representative of the Burroughs Adding Machine company, and Jack Clarke, advertising manager of The News-Journal.

Two other people at the same table listened for awhile and then introduced themselves to the other two by saying they, too, were from Louisville. They were Mr. and Mrs. William D. Clauss, 255 1/2 South Mulberry. The casual meeting turned into a Louisville reunion.

VOTE TODAY ON CLEVELAND TAX

Electors Decide on Charter Amendment Authorizing New Operating Levies.

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND — A charter amendment to authorize city council to levy operating taxes supplementing the 10-mill constitutional limit was submitted to Cleveland voters today with the support of prominent organizations.

Election officials predicted a light vote, some estimates running as low as 125,000.

Mayor Harold H. Burton's administration contends the proposal puts a ceiling on expenditures for municipal services.

The chamber of commerce and many other groups endorsed the amendment. Its principal opponents are labor's non-partisan league and the Home Owners' federation, who charge it "would permit the council to raise slush funds to raise salaries of political hacks."

To meet the city's gross 1940 budget of more than $18,000,000, the administration seeks to raise $9,228,007 through the amendment. This sum, representing a supplementary levy of 8.2 mills, includes $2,512,175 earmarked for relief.

The proposal stipulates that council, without a referendum, may levy in future years up to 8.15 mills for operating purposes, including millage available in the constitutional 10-mill bracket. It also authorizes an annual levy up to two-tenths of a mill for capital improvements.

The 10-mill tax is expected to yield Cleveland only $2,287,705 this year for operations. Officials except about $5,354,718 additional revenue from miscellaneous sources, such as sales and gasoline tax refunds, inheritance taxes and automobile license allocations.

Approval by a majority of voters will carry the amendment. Its adoption would establish the 1940 municipal tax rate at 31.95 mills on the city's $1,208,124,770 assessed valuation.

'PEACE, HARMONY AND VICTORY' SOLE DEM ISSUE, KENNEDY SAYS

NORWALK — (AP)—The only real issue before Ohio Democrats this year is "peace and harmony and victory in November," according to William J. Kennedy, of Cleveland, one of eight candidates seeking his party's gubernatorial nomination.

In a speech at a Jackson day dinner last night, Kennedy urged Huron county Democrats to back a candidate who could win next fall.

"To nominate a man who can't be elected in November puts butter on no man's bread," said Kennedy, former secretary of state.

"Ohio Democrats cannot afford the luxury of muddling or squabbling," he continued, "to rely on fate and a national ticket to pull them through."

"We cannot fail to consider the fact that Senator Vic Donahey, Ohio Democracy's best vote getter, will be missing from the ballot this fall. There is no guarantee that President Roosevelt, who undoubtedly could carry Ohio by a gigantic majority, will be a candidate for re-election."

Kennedy said if he won the nomination, he would "take care" of Governor Bricker in the fall campaign.

Edward Lamb, of Toledo, candidate for the Democratic nomination for attorney general, also spoke. He attacked the "reactionaries in the party who would take it to the right of the Republicans in a cheap effort to temporize with progress."

"When the Democrats get more conservative than the Republicans," said the CIO attorney, "they might just as well not run a slate of candidates."

"On the other hand, if they, the Democrats, respond to the needs of America's working masses, as did the New Deal in 1935, continued success awaits them."

"If progressives are selected in the May primary, we'll win in November. It is up to the Democratic party to clean itself of 'hot mix' graft and reaction."

100,000 LEAVE VILLAGES AND HOMES ON FARM

Residents of Ceded Areas
Leave Furniture Behind,
Enter Central Finland.

(By United Press)
HELSINKI, Finland — Forty thousand square miles of Finland, where 100,000 people had made their homes, had been cleared of its inhabitants today, and the empty homes, the snow-covered farms, the villages and towns and the remnants of household goods had been left to the Russians.

In compliance with the protocol to the Russo-Finnish peace treaty, the Longavaar-Varti-laa-Matkaselka area just north of Lake Ladoga was cleared at midnight. Other areas had been evacuated previously, and there remained in the regions only a few fisher families on the far northern Ribachi and Spedny peninsulas to hand over to Russia.

Many persons in the ceded areas were compelled to leave behind considerable furniture and other household goods.

Refugees were housed, temporarily, in schools, public buildings and private homes and on estates. Most of them were in western and south central Finland.

GO TO CENTRAL FINLAND.

The people of the Karelian peninsula, who had the longest distance to travel, were mostly assembled in central Finland.

Most of the refugees were old people or children, as younger men have not yet been mobilized.

(A United Press dispatch from Kirkenaes, in far northern Norway, said that the Russians were evacuating the Petsamo area ahead of schedule. Under the protocol they agreed to get out by April 10. Already, however, the dispatch said, they were moving out rapidly, and it was believed that the Nickel region would be clear of them by the week-end so it would be possible to make a survey of the condition of the mines.)

R. S. Cosgrove, formerly department manager at the Mansfield Westinghouse plant was named to the board of directors of the Crosley corporation yesterday at the annual meeting of stockholders in Cincinnati.

Cosgrove, who had been manager of the merchandising division for Westinghouse and who had been with the company for about 20 years, resigned his position here to accept the Crosley post several weeks ago.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Off the Paramount lot, that day seemed like any other balmy one in Spring—sunny, warm and sleepy. On the Paramount lot, that day was like no other anywhere, for Cecil Blount DeMille was starting a picture.

It seemed a little odd that the skies did not open, the earth tremble, and the sun dip from its course in salute. But even DeMille can't have everything, and the boys and girls of the lot did their best. It's true that pictures get started in Hollywood almost every day. When DeMille pictures get under way, however, that is something else again.

Mr. DeMille, attended by his retinue, arrived upon the set, sometimes and plunged with vigor into the epochal task ahead. Actors Gary Cooper, Preston Foster and Montague Love (all of whom can get along perfectly well with practically no direction at all) were soon ranged about the set in their appointed places, awaiting—presumably breathlessly—the Word. It came, and Cecil Blount DeMille's 65th epic, "North West Mounted Police," was off.

The Master was modestly dressed for the occasion. Brown leather boots, polished to a sheen, green sports suit; blue-green shirt; predominantly pink tie; red carnation. The Master applied himself—generally, earnestly, seriously. The retinue applied itself, too.

Followed by his staff, the Master went to lunch. He walked purposefully, as always, a step ahead of his followers. (There is a legend, probably untrue, that the Master will pass an earthquake should any man presume to step ahead of him.)

Five Mansfield Boys Among Survivors In Boxing Classic

By CHARLES MARTIN

FIVE Mansfield youths are among the army of fighters returning to the Senior high gymnasium tonight for quarter-final sessions of the third annual Junior Association of Commerce boxing tournament.

Simon pure talent—some of it facing initial bouts—take part in 25 sets. A large share of the semi-finals will be added to the program which is scheduled to open at 7:30 p. m.

While three of the Mansfielders are favored to advance to the finals, the way leather slingers mowed down rivals last night before a gathering estimated at 500, they face stiff opposition.

Fight enthusiasts were rewarded with an interesting opening affair last night. In 23 heats, 13 lads emerged with knockout victories. The future ring champions showed considerable promise as they unleashed stunning blows from any position.

Al Sauer, who six months ago was a struggling novice, stole a portion of the show last night with his spectacular performance. The Ontario high student, fighting under the Friendly House banner, unveiled a potent right uppercut as he stopped Stan Cotterman, 172, of Fremont, in 36 seconds of the second round.

Seeking the lightweight title, Sauer spotted his rival a nine-pound advantage, but it didn't matter. Once Sauer found the range it was a question how long Cotterman could stand up.

Joe Sauer, Al's brother, made his ring debut, by registering an easy win over Bob Higgins, 145, Marion. Joe scored a technical knockout in one minute and 34 seconds of the second heat.

John Emerson, 134, of the Mansfield Y. M. C. A., desperately trying to score his first ring triumph, ran into some bad luck. He fought Joe Montagno, 133, Marion, and apparently had the situation well in hand. But when the judges, Paul Elliot, Jess Willard and Ray Morgan—turned in the slips, Willard gave the wrong one and Montagno was awarded the decision. The crowd booed for several minutes. Tournament officials consulted Russ Gimbel, district A. U. commissioner, but it was impossible to reverse the verdict.

Emerson possessed a sweet left and had Montagno in trouble on several occasions. Mansfield fans claimed it was the best fight of his career.

The Emerson family, however, still has a member in the meet. He is Bob Emerson, a featherweight, who advanced by taking a decision from Howard Williams, 127, of the settlement.

The only defending champion in the classic this spring—Bill Moore, 160-pound king—got by his first test with a knockout over Dick Messenger, 152, Marion, in one minute and 31 seconds of the first round. He let loose a flock of hard rights to accomplish the feat.

Ed Talley, 116, of the Friendly House, went one step nearer the bantamweight crown by stopping Omar Cox, 116, Bucyrus, in one minute and five seconds of the first setto.

The other Mansfield victory was scored by Frank Harris, 119, Friendly House, who decided Bob White, 113, Marion. Manny Armstrong, of Columbus, stat. middleweight champion, was to fight last night but was ill. He is expected to go into action tonight.

MARGARET BAKER established a new high individual series record in the Mixed Double League at the Meder alleys last night. Margaret, bowling with F. Schreff contributed a 453 as the club registered a 1,100 total to annex team scoring honors.

Sarazen Maps Out Campaign

Golf Star, 38, Plans For 3 Years Tournament Play.

GREENSBORO, N. C.—(AP)—Far from looking forward to retirement, Gene Sarazen at 38 is mapping out a campaign for at least three more years of tournament golf.

Part of that campaign includes play in the current winter tour. He hasn't finished first yet, but starting the three-postponed second round of the $5,000 Greensboro open today he was only two shots back of Ben Hogan and Clayton Heafner, leaders last Saturday with 69's.

"There's no reason why, at my age, I shouldn't still be good enough to win," said the stocky squire.

"These fellows—Snead, Hogan, Mangrum—can all hit the ball a mile off the tee and straight, too. Still they're not shotmakers. They're not well-grounded in fundamentals."

Gene contends that things have been made too easy for the present-day players, both pros and amateurs.

"I'll withhold my final opinion on these boys until they're past 30," said Sarazen. "If they can keep winning then, I'll be ready to concede they're fine golfers."

St. Louis Cardinals' Stock Goes Up as Medwick Signs

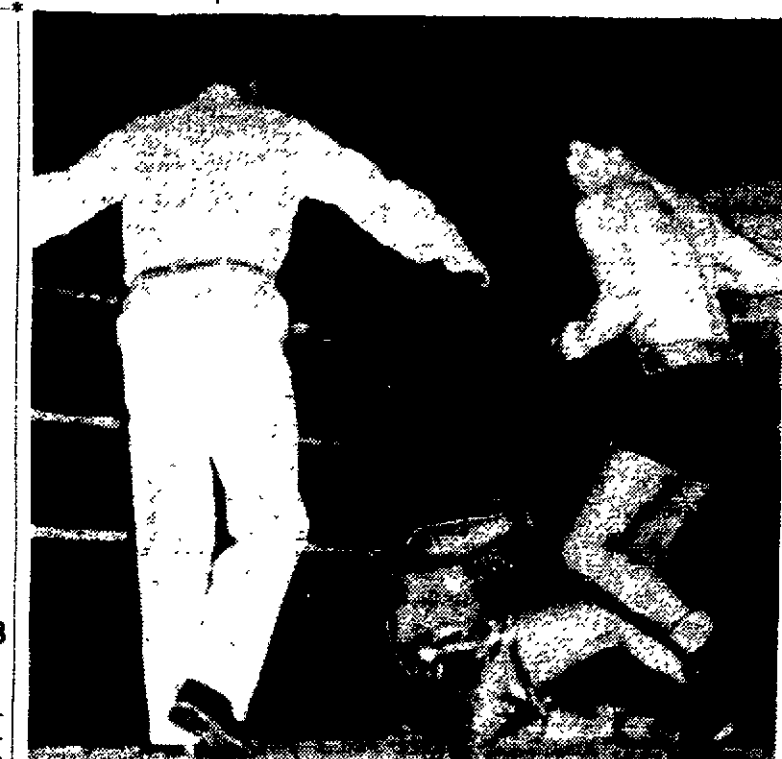

MIAMI BEACH—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, the dopests' nominee for the National League flag, scored a crucial off-the-diamond victory in signing baseball's No. 1 holdout.

Outfielder Joe Medwick, who thought his slugging talents worth at least $20,000 this year—a return to his 1938 salary—changed his mind last night and accepted the Cardinals' "dead-line" offer of $18,000, same as he earned last season.

The club's stock rose sharply on the heels of the announcement. The Cardinals have only a mediocre record in the grapefruit league and there had been considerable gloom over Medwick's absence. Several National League managers have picked the Cards to win the pennant—with Medwick.

Joe led the National in batting and won the most valuable player award in 1937. His batting average last season was .332.

Springfield, Erie, Pa., Drop Out of Mid-Atlantic League

Circuit President Says Two Clubs Unable to Secure Sponsors This Season.

CANTON—(AP)—The Middle Atlantic baseball league, opening May 2 and closing Sept. 5, will operate this season with six clubs. Akron, Canton, Dayton, Youngstown and Portsmouth, O., and Charleston, W. Va., will compete, with each playing 130 games.

Springfield, O., and Erie, Pa., dropped from the league after losing affiliation with clubs of higher leagues. Last year Springfield was backed by the Cleveland Indians and Erie by Indianapolis of the American association.

President Elmer Daily, who presided at a league meeting here yesterday, said hopes of continuing the eight-club setup were abandoned after Springfield and Erie were unable to find sponsors.

He said the league probably would return to full membership in 1941, but there was no indication where the two additional clubs would be placed.

The opening day schedule calls for Canton at Portsmouth, Akron at Dayton and Charleston at Youngstown.

LOS ANGELES—Turkey Thompson, 166, Los Angeles outpointed Teddy Yancy, 170, Pittsburgh, former middleweight champion, (10).

The News-Journal camera caught John Emerson, 134, Mansfield, as he and Joe Montagno, 133, Marion, mix it up in close quarters. Montagno, who won a decision when one of the judges handed in the wrong slip, is wearing the white trunks. The crowd booed the verdict.

Are Waners Near End Of Baseball Careers?

By RUSSELL NEWLAND

SAN FRANCISCO—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, in and out of here on a "quickie" series of exhibitions, left one poser which may provide the news behind the baseball news this season.

It deals with the Waner boys, Paul and Lloyd, who taught themselves to hit corn cobs with a broom stick so accurately as Oklahoma school boys that they became one of the great brother acts of baseball.

The question is: Are the Waners nearing the end of their string with the Pirates?

The answer, on the face of the present set-up, would appear to be "yes."

It may not happen this season, or next. Then again, sudden departure of either from the club would occasion no great surprise to those familiar with the workings of the team.

They are the sole survivors of an era that saw Pittsburgh win its last National league pennant—in 1927.

They are now becoming confronted with the problem of bucking Old Man Time.

Paul, who joined the Pirates in 1926, will be 37 next month. He is beginning his 15th season. Lloyd, 33, hopped into a Pittsburgh uniform in 1927.

Three times Paul has led the league in hitting. He was top stick man of the club with 328 last season. Hit batting eye is still sharp. But his former speed is only a memory.

Lloyd, smaller than his brother, hit .355 in his first year with the Pirates. Last season he clubbed a weak .285 in 112 games.

MART RALLIES, STOCKS GAIN 1 TO 4 POINTS

Steels Lead Way With Most of List Showing Upward Trend; Bonds Gain.

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK—The stock market rallied smartly today under the leadership of steels and gains of 1 to 4 points appeared throughout the list.

The Associated Press average of 60 selected stocks was up half a point at noon and, although profit-taking appeared toward the fourth hour, the level held fairly well. It was one of the staunchest boosts since last fall.

Especially favored were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Youngstown, Harvester, Loft, White Rock, Canada Dry and Commercial Solvents, the last four hitting new year's highs.

Bonds gained. Commodities were uneven. Foreign markets were firm.

Chief incentive to the boost was the surprise declaration late yesterday of a $1 common stock dividend by U. S. Steel corporation. Industrial shares analysts, seeking to determine the relationship of stock prices and factory production, noted a further decline in the Associated Press weekly index of electric power output at 122.8 from 124.4 the previous week.

However, they also noted the present rate is more than nine points above the index of a year ago.

FRANCE, SOVIET NEAR IN RECALL OF AMBASSADOR

Telegram Praising Stalin For Finn Peace Treaty Held as Basis for Action.

His recall means that neither nation will have an ambassador in the other's capital. The French envoy, Paul Emile Naggar, has been on "sick leave" for some weeks.

The French demand that Russia recall Surits was interpreted as a "warning" to Russia from the new "win-the-war" government under Paul Reynaud that it intends to take a stiffer diplomatic course in the conflict with Germany, Russia's new friend.

The French also are said to be disturbed by a reported increase in Russian espionage.

The official French spokesman said that normal relations had been maintained with Russia "above all for reasons of practical order."

However, he added, France "does not intend to be duped. France intends to make her rights vigorously respected."

Increased attention here has been turned on the Near East and possible Russian-German intentions there. Italy's future course also is the subject of close study.

Approval Hope Dim.

The next strain on Paris-Moscow relations may come when—and if—the Soviet Union nominates a successor to Surits. Informed quarters it was considered unlikely that the new French government would approve any replacement.

A French official spokesman charged that Surits had "insulted the Allies" in the telegram to Stalin.

Reynaud, in a fighting speech last night, steered away from relations with Russia but declared that his government's "clear" duty is "to make war and make it in every field."

He asserted that Reichsfuehrer Hitler had "put everything into motion" to menace the economic life of the Balkan states. He added that France's interests in western Europe are equal to those in eastern Europe.

To permit Germany to gain her ends in the southeast, he added, "would mean the end of liberty and the end of France."

British Adopt 'Hands Off' Policy In Scrap.

LONDON.—(U.S.)—Great Britain adopted a "hands-off" attitude today toward the diplomatic controversy between its French ally and Soviet Russia over Jacob Surits, Russian ambassador recalled from Paris to Moscow at request of the French government.

Authoritative British quarters stated that the Surits affair is purely a French matter and is of "no interest to Britain."

Furthermore, these circles said, it has produced no change whatever in relations between Great Britain and Russia.

Russian circles revealed that the Surits telegram to Dictator Josef Stalin which aroused the ire of the French government was a message the Soviet envoy was transmitting on behalf of the Russian colony in Paris.

The telegram, which referred to "Anglo-French war instigators" was written in the French language and was addressed to Stalin through public channels, not diplomatically, and thus had to pass through the French censor before being released. The censor stopped the message.

HORST SEARCH TURNS TO CITY

Special Investigator Sought Woman Here Believed Linked in Case.

told "four or five" different stories on the Horst case, Sherwood said. LaFatch's suspected bootlegging activities were carefully investigated when young Melvin disappeared.

The welfare director said he was doubtful whether the boy, if he is alive, knows his real identity.

A special investigator for the welfare department was expected to ask Bricker today for nationwide help in an effort to locate two former Wayne county men reported to have had with them ten years ago a child closely resembling the Horst boy. The men were supposed to be oil field workers, one of whom had a bootlegging record.

Dispatches from Orrville said that Mrs. Raymond Horst, the boy's mother, knew nothing of a new investigation into the mystery surrounding the disappearance of her son.

Since the boy vanished from the Wayne county village thousands of clues have been traced without success.

"It's all news to me," Mrs. Horst said at her home in nearby Marshallville. "I haven't heard Mr. Horst speak of it either. Every so often these stories about our boy seem to crop out."

Mayor William said "nothing has developed lately."

William admitted he had been conducting his own inquiry for some time and added:

"All I can say at this time is that we know more about the case than has ever been known before."

Melvin, known as Orrville's "little boy blue," disappeared while at play. Several days later a 10-year-old neighbor boy told of seeing two persons kidnap Melvin. Both were convicted, only to be acquitted later on retrial when the boy changed his story.

One of the theories of the child's disappearance was that he was kidnapped by bootleggers in retaliation against the liquor-raiding activities of Melvin's uncle, Roy Horst, then Orrville's marshal.

53 SCOUTS PASSED BY SHELBY BOARD OF REVIEW AT MEETING

SHELBY.—Another record number of Boy Scouts was reviewed by the Shelby district board of review for advancement and merit badge awards Tuesday night at the high school building. Fifty-three Scouts were passed by the board.

The largest number of Scouts ever reviewed by the board were the 55 boys passed at the last quarterly session of the board earlier this year. The usual number reviewed by the board in the past has only been about 25 Scouts, Scout officials pointed out.

The reason for the activity this year, Scout officials disclosed, is because there is a friendly rivalry between Troop 1 and 3 in this city to see which group gets the highest number toward the Hillard trophy.

Both troops are making special effort this year to win this trophy which is presented to the troop in the Johnny Appleseed area making the most advancement and outstanding achievements during the year. Points, based on the size of the troop, are given for various activities done by the troops.

Two members of Troop 3 were passed by the board last night for advancement to Eagle rank. They were Richard Claes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Claes, 30 Central avenue, and Robert Briggs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Briggs, 23 Summit avenue. SCORES VICTORY IN ASHLAND ROW

Fire Chief Wins One Round in Fight to Retain Salary as Council Acts on Repeal.

However, after passage, two councilmen who had voted for the bill, reversed their stand and announced their opposition to it, demanding that council reconsider. Council refused, and the two colons, Jack B. Lantz and Chester Walz, announced they would block every item of emergency legislation for the balance of their two-year terms.

With the mayor capitulating and council considering the new ordinance, which repealed the one they had passed earlier, Lantz and Walz stuck to their threat, and refused to permit measure to be passed as an emergency. Ashland council has five members, and a three-fourths vote is required to suspend the rules for passage of emergency legislation. Two negative votes were sufficient, and Lantz and Walz voted against suspension of the rules.

When the measure then came up for first reading—two more are now necessary—they voted for repeal, and the ballot was unanimous.

In first recommending that the salary and authority of the fire chief be abolished, Mayor Lutz asserted that he felt that Chief Clark had neither the ability nor the temperament to head the fire department.

He charged that in circulation of his petitions, Clark had stressed his need of the $410 salary in obtaining signers, rather than his ability to handle the job.

Since Clark had more than enough signatures to bring about a popular election on repeal of the ordinance, the mayor agreed to its repeal by council, he said, rather than incur the cost of a special election.

In addition to his duties as chief of the fire department, Clark is also custodian of the Chamber of Commerce headquarters here.

SOLONS LEARN CITY PROBLEMS

Officials Lay Cards on Table In Move for 'Mutual Understanding.'

The bureau was invaluable in running down the two child molesters in the county whose cases have been disposed of and who are now serving sentences, Bates added.

Councilman Philip Smith, who is chairman of city council's traffic committee, took a part in the "school" and explained the job confronting his group. Reckless driving, speeding and double parking constitute the major portion of the problem, he said.

His group and a citizens committee headed by Lewis Hartman, have been working on this problem for several weeks, consulting a cross section of citizens, business people and truckers, Smith said. Hartman's committee and Smith expect to meet within a few days.

Crafton announced last night at the meeting that bids would be asked immediately on a new cruiser for the police department. Council appropriated money for this item some time ago. It will be equipped with bullet-proof glass, bullet-proof metal and one gun port.

Crafton said today that he was highly satisfied with the result of the meeting and believed that both councilmen and department heads had a better understanding of each other's problems now.

sult in Ontario province outside the city still was in doubt. In 1935, Ontario elected 25 conservatives to parliament.

Liberal Quebec, on the other hand, backed the government wholeheartedly. All but one of the province's 65 seats were contested and the liberals were assured of winning all but two. In one of these, there was no voting yesterday. One of the nominees had died and a by-election will be held in a few weeks.

Manion's defeat in the Fort William, Ont., district, was a serious blow to the conservatives, however. There was a slight chance that the soldier-vote, to be announced April 2, might change the result. Soldiers abroad and at home have indicated in straw votes that they favor the conservatives.

Farley Predicts Clean Sweep for Dems In November

CLAIMS MAINE WILL LEAVE FOLD OF G. O. P.

Declares Republican Victory in 17th Ohio District Was a 'Townsend Tide.'

(By United Press)

BANGOR, Me. — Postmaster-General James A. Farley said today he believed the Democrats would carry next November even Maine, one of the two states which went Republican in 1936.

Farley, candidate for the party's presidential nomination, told the Democratic state convention that he considered "general political omens" pointed to a Democratic victory in Maine.

As the state convention convened, a third-term bloc already was claiming an initial victory in its fight to instruct national convention delegations to cast their 10 votes for nomination of President Roosevelt. Farley did not mention the third-term issue in his speech.

The Roosevelt supporters faced a strong fight against Farley's backers.

Ridiculing the contentions of Republicans that the election of a Republican to succeed a Democrat in the 17th Ohio Congressional district pointed to a G. O. P. national victory in November, Farley said "the Republican candidate won his victory by endorsing the Townsend pension plan."

"The new-found Republican tide," Farley said, "was in reality a Townsend tide" showing strength for "a scheme similar to those which (Republican National Chairman John D. M.) Hamilton has repeatedly denounced as fantastic and insane."

Farley saw in the administration-sponsored social security program the means of solving "in permanent and satisfactory manner" the problem of old-age assistance. He believed, however, that the social security law should be amended and improved "in the light of experience," and predicted that the Democratic party would do this.

The Republican party, he said, has used pension promised as a "vote-catching device" but still remains "officially" against any kind of pensions for the old folks.

"Despite a slight twinge of liberalism," he said, "the G. O. P. is still strongly tied to reaction and blind conservatism" and still has no presidential candidate "able to unite the two factions."

The third-term forces hailed as indicative of their strength the vote of 90 state delegates last night to support a motion to instruct the national delegation to favor the president.

GILEAD COUNCIL SETTLES SUIT

Reach Agreement in $20,000 Damage Action Resulting From Stream Pollution.

MT. GILEAD — A special session of the Mt. Gilead village council Monday night settled a taxpayer's stream pollution suit.

Gale Westbrook's $20,000 pollution suit charging damage to his property along Whetstone creek, (Oleantangy) from sewage plant discharge was to be dismissed in common pleas court later this week as a result.

The dual conferences conferred separately in the village jail, adjoining the council chamber, to reach a settlement. The amount agreed upon was not disclosed.

Later Mayor Bennett disclosed Westbrook had agreed to seek dismissal of his suit on payment by the village of expenses incurred, including engineering fees and reports, the loss of five sheep from poisoned refuse on a city dump adjacent to his property, and council fees.

Addressing the session called to discuss settlement, Walter Dressel, attorney for the plaintiff asked $400 as settlement price. Council retired to consider the proposal, returning to offer a counter settlement. Westbrook and Dressel then accepted it.

DIES PROBERS SPUR QUIZ ON THREE FRONTS

Roosevelt Alias on Communist Membership Card Brings Subpoena for Secretary.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The Dies committee moved swiftly on three fronts today in its war against un-American activities.

Development in the campaign were:

1. Committeemen prepared to hear George Powers, Communist secretary for western Pennsylvania, who was subpoenaed in Pittsburgh and ordered to bring all his party records to Washington today. Powers will be asked what Communist used the alias "Franklin D. Roosevelt" as his party name, and if he refuses to answer will face a possible contempt citation.

2. Rep. Thomas (R., N. J.) a committee member, consulted an unnamed expert retained to make a six-month survey of asserted subversive material in textbooks. "A great deal of Communist doctrine has filtered into school books and is doing immeasurable harm," Thomas declared. "Cleaning that up will be the best job this committee has ever done."

3. Investigator George F. Hurley dispatched subpoenas for "several" men to El Paso, Tex., where it is alleged Mexican and American Communists have banded together seeking to overthrow the U. S. government. Some agents working on the case declared they believed Communists in Mexico were ready to stage a revolt and were seeking to organize "fellow travelers" on this side of the border.

Investigators who subpoenaed Powers in Pittsburgh yesterday said they also tried to serve Martin Young, Allegheny county secretary for the Communist party. They reported he had "skipped," but said officers were searching for him.

Young allegedly countersigned a card bearing the alias "Franklin D. Roosevelt" and found in the possession of another Pittsburgh Communist—James Hulse Dolsen. Dolsen refused to say which member paraded under the president's name. The committee has a contempt citation pending against him.

Chairman Dies (D., Tex.) announced that all key Communists in Pittsburgh who can be located will be asked about this card as well as for lists of their fellow members. If they refuse to respond, he said, they will be charged with contempt.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 27, 1940.

If he sells things, and is cheerful about this sort of weather, he's probably in the coal business.

The credit bureau's card index should also come in handy in deciding on the Allies' application for more loans.

As Robert Quillen puts it: "This will be remembered as the era in which we spent 30 billion dollars to conceal the fact that we weren't getting anywhere."

Oppose One-House Legislature

EXCEPT for the opportunity thus given to discuss the subject as a theory which may sometime become practicable, there is no apparent reason to become greatly agitated over the proposal to establish a unicameral (one house) legislature in Ohio.

The idea bobbed up in this state in 1937 as a proposed constitutional amendment which never reached the ballot, and there is some indication of attempting to revive it this year—probably on the basis of appearance of at least partial success of the experiment in Nebraska, which has had a one-house legislature for the past several years.

Immediate opposition to such a change comes from farm groups, which fear the result would be a concentration of state government in a few metropolitan centers, to the detriment of agricultural interests.

For a long time it has been the claim of spokesmen for large cities that legislation has been too strongly influenced by rural representation in the legislature.

It has remained, therefore, for the smaller cities, towns and villages, to maintain a balance between these seemingly conflicting forces and to attempt, insofar as possible, to secure fair treatment for all concerned.

It has been said by John M. Hodson, head of the legislative committee of the Ohio Farm Bureau, that farm taxes have been reduced, within the past ten years, from 46 millions to 21 millions, and that this benefit has been passed on to all citizens in the form of reduced costs of farm products.

It is asked by Mr. Hodson that farmers "rally to the ranks of farm bureau units in greater numbers than ever before, to provide the strength of numbers and funds necessary to defeat these proposed changes in Ohio government."

In other words, elements of conflict and distrust exist in this country and in this state, which, under a less orderly form of government might easily result in violent dissension among people who fail to realize that their interests are mutual and that each is dependent on the other.

As long as present lack of confidence continues, with appearance of enmity instead of friendship existing between individuals and groups which should all be working together to strengthen democracy and advance the general welfare, it may be doubted if either a two-house or a one-house legislature can meet legislative requirements satisfactorily.

In any event, there is no indication that the time has yet arrived for adoption of such a change as is contemplated in the proposed constitutional amendment affecting the present legislative set-up.

For Those Who Answer Questions

SOMETHING rather out of the ordinary in preparation for tourists is Michigan's school for all citizens who come in immediate contact with tourists. The period from April 14 to 21 has been set aside as "Know Michigan Tourist Week." Classes will be held in every county in the state that is interested in self-promotion. The pupils will be store clerks, filling station attendants, waiters, and others who serve the traveling public.

Traverse City, for example, has a class of 200 persons ready to take the course. They will learn all about the Grand Traverse region, its geography and history and charm, so that they can answer questions promptly, correctly and courteously.

Kentucky is another state that provides instruction in its special attractions so that its citizens can oblige tourists with requested information.

This is an excellent idea for another reason, too. Most people know too little about their own states and communities. "Know your state" classes might open many eyes to local treasures.

Move to Protect Bicyclists

WHILE the bicycle licensing ordinance now being considered by Mansfield city council may impress some people as unnecessary, or even as an infringement on personal liberty, the fact remains that such a requirement has worked to advantage in a number of cities in which similar ordinances are already in effect.

Among the benefits of a license is the greater ease with which stolen bicycles can be traced, through the license number and description kept in police department files, and the requirement for headlight, taillight, brake, and other safety equipment on each licensed bicycle.

It can scarcely be assumed that the proposed charge of 25 cents for a license, to extend through duration of the bicycle, will meet the actual clerical and administrative costs, but this is of minor importance if the ordinance serves its intended purpose of increasing the safety of bicyclists and adding to their assurance against theft.

Nothing to Laugh About

A MOSCOW newspaper has been criticizing Soviet scenario writers for leaving fun out of screen plays. Five out of six new pictures, it says, are devoid of humor. "They run from laughter as from a cannon shot."

There has always been gloom in Russian art, whether literature, music or drama. But there has also been a certain gaiety and easy laughter. If these are now being left out it is probably because the creators of various art forms find little cause for laughter in Russia today.

It wasn't so long ago that the powers that rule in Germany were trying to stimulate humor and fun in newspapers and magazines there. They applied the same heavy-handed compulsion one now sees in Russia.

We have serious productions here, too, but this development has not crowded out laughter, humor, slapstick entertainment or delicate whimsy.

It is easy to believe that a Russian or German scenario writer has to be careful at what or whom he pokes fun, and must watch his step lest his pokes attract the attention of the OGPU.

In French politics, as the French themselves say, "the more things change, the more they remain the same."

Mr. Dewey is scheduled for 22 speeches in a row, which may bring on a row.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — For the first time in 24 years, Republicans and Democrats swing into a battle for the presidency against the ominous backdrop of big-time European warfare.

The 1940 campaign scene has marked similarities — and some striking contrasts — to that of 1916 when Woodrow Wilson rode to victory over Charles Evans Hughes on the slogan "He kept us out of war."

Again the nation is trying to maintain neutrality. Again a Democratic administration is in power. To Europe on a peace-exploring tour for President Roosevelt went Under-Secretary of State Sumner Welles. To Europe on a similar mission went President Wilson's unofficial ambassador, Col. E. M. House.

The "all-out" war then had a sharper impact on this country than the present "limited" conflict. Submarine sinking without warning of foreign merchant vessels with Americans aboard brought from Wilson an ultimatum that unless Germany abandoned that sort of warfare the United States would sever diplomatic relations. Uncle Sam now forbids American ships and travelers to go into war zone waters.

T. R. Jeered Wilson.

IN 1916, members of both parties carried guns as well as flags in Citizens Preparedness parades. New York society girls enrolled in a "military training camp" operated by a woman of wealth at Erskine, N. J. In contrast to the current overwhelming "keep out" sentiment, many then felt that U. S. participation was inevitable.

Republicans centered their campaign attack on Wilson's failure to take a stronger stand in dealing with the belligerents, particularly Germany. Teddy Roosevelt lambasted him for writing "pussy-footing notes," jeered at the famed Wilson declaration "a nation too proud to fight."

This year's G. O. P. fire is being directed chiefly at Democratic domestic policies. On the international side, Republican politicians are warning of the danger of our getting into the war.

Owing to the third-term enigma and the flock of leading possibilities in both parties, presidential prospects are much more muddled now than in 1916. Wilson was an unopposed Democratic choice for a second term. Justice Hughes was a likely Republican selection although T. R. was getting more of the spotlight.

Hughes won the Republican nomination on the third ballot. Teddy Roosevelt was nominated by the Progressives but declined and supported the Republican ticket. The Wilson-Hughes race was the closest since the Hayes-Tilden contest, Hughes having the bitter experience of learning that he had lost the presidency after believing he had won it.

Early Returns for Hughes.

EARLY returns from the east and middle-western cities gave Hughes such a large lead that New York newspapers ran the headline "Sweeping Victory for Hughes."

Belated returns from rural sections in the west showed Wilson gaining and, on the third day after election, his victory was conceded. Wilson received 277 electoral votes, Hughes 254.

Before Wilson's second inauguration, unrestricted submarine warfare caused severance of diplomatic relations with Germany. Less than a month after his inauguration he appeared before congress to ask a declaration of a state of war.

UNLESS, OF COURSE, IT GETS TOO WARM

Listen, World!

Salute "The Unknown God."

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WITH the years Saint Paul had become a wise old man. Long ago, in his hot and ignorant youth, he had been ruthless, trampling on the minds and hearts of other men, in his arrogant determination to shape them to his own way of thinking. But there had come that great day on the road to Damascus—that day when the Truth had cut into him like a blazing sword, and he had seen himself for the stupid, brutal creature that he was.

Since then he had been kind. It had been hard at first. He was of a stiff-necked breed. In spite of himself the old hankering for power would come back—that swift contempt for the other fellow's viewpoint. But always, now, there was the memory of that lovely vision of Christ's gentleness.

So, passionately, Paul, who had been Saul, tried to be gentle, too; tried to understand—to put himself in the other fellow's mind and soul.

The day came when that tolerance was to save his life, and to open hostile hearts. It was in Athens, a perilous place for a Christian, for the Greeks were no followers of Christ. Proudest of the proud, they worshipped a whole heaven of gods—Zeus and Hera, Ares, Athena, swift Hermes, lovely Aphrodite. Everywhere there were temples and shrines, hundreds of them.

And now Paul stood above those shrines in the midst of Mars Hill. Suddenly, out of the new and gentler wisdom, came the inspiration. Now he knew! Raising his head, he spoke that message of love which lay within his heart. But this time he did not try to force his God on them. Instead, he spoke to the God in them!

"Ye men of Athens," he began, "as I passed by and beheld your devotions I found an altar with this inscription: 'TO THE UNKNOWN GOD.'"

And now Paul, bringing the story of Christ, cried to that hunger for a nameless god which lay —which still lies—in the heart of every man. They were strangers to him, and of a faith he despised. But he did not attack them, or try to shame them. Instead, he did reverence to the good that was in them.

And because he saluted the good in them—because he believed in them—the Athenians believed in Paul, accepted him, respected his message.

You, too, will speak on many a Mars Hill. Often you will want to give your message to other men, and will wonder how you can win your way past their challenging eyes and hostile hearts.

Many a time in the past you've tried and failed—failed even with those you loved best. You've coaxed and cajoled, threatened and stormed. They wouldn't listen. And with each word they grew more stubborn and resentful. Yet you knew you were right. But how could you make them see?

BY RECOGNIZING THAT THEY, TOO, WERE RIGHT. IF YOU WISH TO GIVE YOUR GOOD TO ANOTHER MAN, RESPECT FIRST THE GOOD IN HIM. SALUTE THAT UNKNOWN GOD AROUND WHICH HE BUILDS HIS SECRET DREAMS.

And that goes for the most abandoned creatures on earth as well as for the noblest. For each man carries a god in him, no matter how low he may have sunk in the middle of life.

Salute his god, and he will have faith in yours! (Copyright, 1940)

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Oswald Jacoby, the bridge ace, has abandoned contract momentarily and is devoting himself to poker. He's written a book on the inside rules of the game, with an introduction by Grantland Rice, the sports writer, but the book won't be released until sometime in May.

The best line I ever read on poker was Mark Twain's, who described the complacency of one of his characters in this wise: "He sat there with the confidence of a Christian holding four aces."

Ernest Hemingway broke into the news two ways recently. His play "The Fifth Column" opened on Broadway, and his intentions to become divorced and re-wed were announced in the papers. If you know the girl he wants to marry you'll recognize a striking resemblance between her and the heroine of his play.

This opinion is based purely on letters from correspondents, but Hemingway's title "The Fifth Column" seems to have confused a number of people. The action of the play takes place during the siege by Franco of Madrid. The city is being attacked, from the outside, by four columns of men, and from within by an espionage unit which Hemingway calls "The Fifth Column."

LOTS of new fishing tackle in the sports stores; time's getting closer every day. . . . Good book to read in bed: "Moment in Peking," by Lin Yutang. . . . I'm never satisfied with a hat after it's rebeked. . . . They feel better when they're old and dirty. . . . Won't be long now until the Giants and the Yankees and the Brooklyn come home. . . . If you've never seen an opening day at the Polo Grounds, your life is incomplete. . . . The heroine of Sinclair Lewis's new novel is Bethel Meriday, and a swell portrait she is to hang next to Babbitt, Dodsworth, and Armstrong.

How many people with color in their names can you think of right quick?—Lew Brown, Johnny Green, Hugo Black, Red Nichols, Blue Barron, Gray Gordon, Paul Whiteman. . . . I suppose you could add Billy Rose, and Scarlett O'Hara. . . . Names are funny. . . . The prettiest name for a girl I know is Mignon. . . . Say it over to yourself and see how it sounds. . . .

WHEN you see these signs, you know you're on Broadway: "Theima, the Bird Girl—she'll surprise you." . . . "Pants pressed while you get your shoes shined." . . . "Princess Kayama—Let Her Read Your Mind." . . . Coconut milk in Sloppy Joe's for 5 cents. . . . Orange drink in Nodicks for 5 cents. . . . Papaya juice at Papaya Pete's for 5 cents. . . . WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—For a long time now the Inner Circle has been pulling and pushing to bounce genial little Harry Woodring out of the cabinet. And where everything else has failed, it now looks as if the question of selling U. S. airplane secrets to the Allies might do the trick.

As secretary of war, Harry is opposed to the sale. He even goes considerably further. At a dinner party he told Kansas friends that he feared the president was edging the country into the European mess, and that he, Woodring, might have to resign in protest.

Roosevelt, on the other hand, favors selling the Allies the latest model U. S. airplanes, and selling them as quickly as possible. Assistant Secretary of War Johnson feels the same way and so does Secretary of the Navy Edison, son of the famed inventor. He says that no invention remains secret long, and the French and British might as well help us perfect them.

One secret airplane type which the Allies want to buy is the P-46, a new pursuit plane in which the United States lifted certain ideas from the Germans, particularly a two-foot lower fuselage which cuts down wind resistance.

Roosevelt and Johnson feel that if we took this idea from the Germans, there is no reason why the British can't do the same (except for the time element), and that we can perfect better planes by building for the French and British.

Another new plane which the Allies are eyeing covetously is the P-38, a Lockheed pursuit plane with a twin Allison motor. In this case, the Germans took over some ideas from us. They built two similar types, the Messerschmidt 112, which was a failure, and the Messerschmidt 111, which is excellent and makes 389 miles per hour using a super-charger.

Meanwhile the Lockheed P-38 makes 381 miles per hour without using a supercharger, which when attached adds about 39 miles of speed.

At present, the plane itself is not secret, but the super-charger is. If the British buy the plane alone they get a ship which goes eight miles slower than the new German Messerschmidt. But if they can buy the secret super-charger, the speed will be about 30 miles faster than the Germans. So some high-placed army men believe the super-charger should be sold to them.

British Failure.

ALLIED censors have tried to suppress it, but British aviation has fallen far short of expectations. The raid over Sylt was a miserable failure, most of the bombs hitting only the sand.

Also the British were caught completely napping when the Nazis raided Scapa Flow. British anti-aircraft guns were late in getting into action, while British pursuit planes did not get into the air until the Germans had started home. Showing how short-handed they were on anti-aircraft guns, after the raid, the British actually borrowed 26 of these guns from Belgium.

Real fact is that what the Allies need most are the U. S. plane detector, secret bomb-sight, and anti-aircraft gun-sight. The British have developed nothing comparable to the U. S. airplane detector, which is why the German planes took Scapa Flow by surprise.

It was obvious also from the poor bombing marksmanship over the German island of Sylt that the British have no bomb-sight which comes anywhere near the American.

Nate—The Allies have not asked for the release of these three important U. S. military and naval inventions.

ORCHESTRA Leader Leopold Stokowski's famous vacation on the Isle of Capri with Greta Garbo was the subject of quite a controversy at one of the closed-door meetings of the house appropriations committee.

Pair of Turtle Doves (A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

DOWN along the road about 200 yards, I heard the first long plaintive coo-coo of the mourning dove. The call persisted in spite of a cold rain and wind and a bleak sky. I hurried in that direction, and hid behind the old rail fence. I stayed there for almost a half hour and had heard nothing more, when suddenly the pair of loving birds flew from my neighbor's meadow and began to dust themselves in the road not twenty feet away. They fluttered, wailed, then pecked some needed gravel and wallowed again.

I could see the soft dark feathers spots below the ears and the bluish iridescence above the shoulders of the male. The short legs barely kept the bodies off the ground and gave an awkward, ungainly step. After the dusting they stood close together in the road and I heard an exchange of low sweet chirps which each seemed to understand. Unfaithfulness and incompatibility are never known between mates of this family of birds. Only death can part them, and then the one that is left often dies of grief or loneliness. I hid until I heard the whistle of their wings as they flew to perch side by side upon the dead branch of a maple.

Last winter a pair stayed near our barn all winter. The old straw-stack sheltered them, and I saw them in January perched on an apple tree. But they did not show the grace and activity of those I saw today.

These birds are relatives of the wild pigeons that used to fly in flocks to hide the sun, but are now almost extinct. Like pigeons, they feed their young by regurgitation. In all my watching, I have seen this happen but once.

The mother dove is a shabby housekeeper. Her nest is just a few short sticks laid across each other in a hollow crevice. I have wondered what the bluebird would say, who builds her comely nest of mud and sticks, and lines it comfortably with soft hair or down. With what disgust the small marsh-wren would look upon such workmanship, or the prim ruby-throat from within her ornate house!

Yet devoted father Dove extolls her virtues and will not see her faults. And she, in turn, is by his side in every undertaking. This loving pair know well the secret of domestic happiness.

FIGHT FOR LOVE + + + + +

CHAPTER XXX

The day the divorce was granted Star went to see Mamie, who had not as yet been informed of her daughter's plans. It was one of Mamie's good days, Star realized gratefully. She was wearing a clean dress and her hair was neatly combed. Mrs. Brady had done a great deal for Mamie's appearance, and Mamie had begun to take more interest in how she looked, and was keeping herself better groomed.

Deciding to break her news immediately, Star said, "I've something to tell you, Mother."

"And I've something to tell you," Mamie interrupted. She picked up the evening paper and showed Star a picture of Mrs. Milton Wood.

"This is that woman who used to come to see the man in number eleven," Mamie said, excitedly. "Mrs. Brady said all the time she was some society dame."

Utterly unprepared for this, Star managed to say, "She doesn't look like the some one you. You see, Mother, I know Mrs. Wood. I worked for her husband while Mrs. Lambert was away."

"You did," Mamie exclaimed, impressed. "Well, how was I to know it? You didn't tell me anything about it. You are always so cagey about your affairs."

"I'm trying to tell you now," Star explained. "Mr. Wood and I are going to be married on Thursday."

Mamie's eyes opened wide.

"You're marrying this Milton Wood? Why, Star Bright, then you must have known who she was all the time."

Star had never lied to her mother before but if Mamie knew the truth she would tell Milton, and the girl had taken a solemn vow that never again should he be hurt by any mention of Jennifer's conduct.

"Mrs. Wood is not the woman I passed on the stairs," she declared. "This picture does have some resemblance but they are not the same. I've seen Mrs. Wood too many times."

That settled it. Mamie's face fell at having her bit of gossip blasted but immediately lighted up at the prospect of her daughter marrying the wealthy Mr. Wood.

Well, Star, I don't know how you do it but I've got to give you credit. I suppose you'll live in his big house and have everything."

"No. We're going to live in an apartment and build a house of our own next year."

Mamie beamed.

"Everything certainly happens at once. Mrs. Brady is moving away, too. Going to Seattle. Have you told your future husband about me?"

"Milton has been very kind," Star said. "He is going to give you the same amount I've been paying, so you won't have to move."

"But I don't want to stay here any more after Mrs. Brady leaves. Why can't I come to live with you? You'll have a big place with servants so I won't be any trouble."

"That's impossible," Star began, but Mamie blurted, "You're ashamed of me! You've always been ashamed of me! After all I've done for you!"

A shadow crossed the girl's face but there was not hint of weakening in her reply.

"I'm sorry to disappoint you, Mother, but Milton and I prefer to live alone."

"It's what I might expect," muttered Mamie. "But I'm not going to stay in this place by myself."

"I told you long ago I thought you'd be happier in a boarding house," Star reminded her. "You'd have more money for other things if you didn't keep this apartment."

"Will he give me the same amount no matter where I live?"

"Yes, I'm sure he will. He's very generous, but you are not to ask for any more. And if you ever tell him about the resemblance between that woman and his wife, I'll have him stop helping you altogether."

"Why, Star," Mamie said with mock meekness. "You don't think I'd do anything like that?"

"I want to be sure of it," Star replied, firmly.

There was no pretense of sentiment between them, either then or two days later when Mamie moved to the boarding house she had selected. It had been recommended, Mamie admitted, by an old friend of Joe's and was occupied by a group of night-club dancers.

(Copyright, 1940)

"You know I always did want to go on the stage," Mamie confided to Milton, who was meeting her for the first time. "I spent a lot of money giving Star dancing lessons but it was no use. She just wasn't interested. But I'm going to enjoy living in the same house with these girls, listening to them talk about their experiences. Some of them knew Joe, that was my second husband, who was killed in an accident. I can't live with my daughter. I can't think of anything I'd rather do."

"The old bluffer," Milton said on their way to Nina's. "She wouldn't live with us if we paid her to. She'd be perfectly miserable."

Star smiled and snuggled closer against his arm. She felt no necessity to explain or be embarrassed about her mother with Milton. He understood, just as he understood everything else about her. Mamie would be accepted as another of his responsibilities, but never again would her shadow be permitted to darken her daughter's life.

Mamie was not present at the ceremony, which was performed in Nina's living room with the writer and her housekeeper as the only witnesses. And when it was over, Star's suitcases were put into Milton's car and they drove to the country where they were to have two weeks' much needed rest. Milton had suggested a honeymoon, but Star said she would rather take it later.

"You're too tired to travel," she said sensibly, and I haven't the right kind of clothes."

"I'll get them for you," he offered.

"Not until after we're married," she insisted. "And then the first trip we make together must be aboard the Adventure."

"Just as soon as it's warm enough we'll take the old boat out," he promised, kissing her.

"She certainly was a lovely bride," Mrs. Epperson said as she and Nina watched the big car drive away. "And as sweet as she is beautiful. I hope he'll be good to her."

"He'll be good to her," Nina sniffed. "You needn't worry about that."

Mrs. Epperson looked at her sympathetically.

"You look all in, Mrs. Lambert. Why don't you go to bed? I'll bring your supper up on a tray."

"I don't want any supper," Nina said, drying her eyes. "Just a pot of hot coffee. I'm going to be up late tonight working on the plot for a new story."

Mrs. Epperson's face expressed her disapproval as she retired to the kitchen. Mrs. Lambert paid good wages and was nice enough to work for but she was getting more temperamental every day.

Upstairs in the writing-room Nina put a match to the fire and sat down in front of it with pencil and paper and a fresh package of cigarettes.

"I didn't consider her good enough for my son," she thought, gazing at the photograph of Bob on her desk. "So I help her marry the only man in the world I have ever wanted. But life is like that."

A moment later she had written on the sheet of paper, "THE MILLS OF THE GODS BY NINA LAMBERT."

$5,000 DAMAGE SUIT SETTLED

Petit Jury Session Postponed Indefinitely as Shelby Action's Dropped.

When a $5,000 damage suit set for trial today was settled and dismissed Tuesday a session of the county petit jury, already twice postponed, was postponed indefinitely.

In the suit, L. D. Gore of Shelby, who sought damages for injuries his wife, Alice, suffered in a fall down a stairway in a Shelby apartment owned by George W. Hoffman. The action was against Hoffman. C. A. McKinley, court assignment clerk, said there were no more cases scheduled for trial before the jury, but it probably would be called back again before the new court term opens April 15.

Eight other cases that had been scheduled for trial this week before the jury were heard by Judge C. H. Huston, settled, or continued.

The court yesterday awarded a $53 judgment in a $128 action brought by Michael Sauer against Mrs. Helen McFadden of Shelby. Sauer won the judgment for work he had done on Mrs. McFadden's farm in Jackson township. He contended that she forced him to move before his lease had expired, causing him to lose certain crops and benefits of the farm.

A case the calendar for Friday was dismissed when it was learned that the plaintiff, S. R. McDonald, had died since the action was started several weeks ago. The suit, in which F. R. McBERTY was defendant, was an appeal from a Mansfield municipal court decision.

RAISES FUNDS

Junior Red Cross to Send Two Delegates to Conference.

For the second consecutive year the Mansfield members of the Richmond County Junior Red Cross will raise money to send two junior delegates to the national conference of the American Red Cross in Washington May 6, 7 and 8.

The juniors will collect old papers and magazines as they did last year, the collection to be made on the afternoon of April 12. They are asking housewives who gather up papers and magazines during the housecleaning period to save them and to tie them in bundles and leave them on front porches.

Calls regarding the papers should be made to the Red Cross office, Canal 1494, any time before April 12.

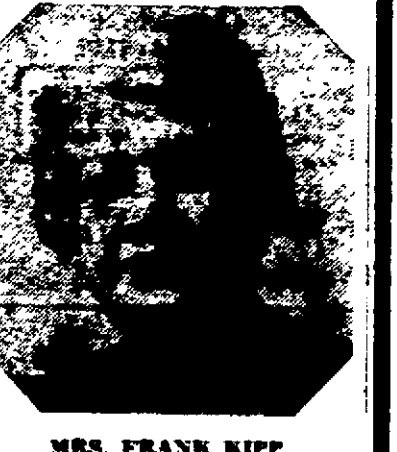

Last year the Mansfield Juniors collected enough papers to pay the expenses of two delegates to Washington. The delegates are chosen by teachers on merit points. Last year's representatives were Virginia Fairman and Jane Stough.

Glad to Tell Anybody What Vendol Did, Says Mrs. Kipp

Declares it has been years since felt so good till finding the right medicine. Relieved constipation, stomach upsets and other troubles.

MRS. FRANK KIPP

In scores of instances Vendol has won public acclaim by the best and most substantial residents of this state, for bringing back the joy of living after months and sometimes years of complaints that robbed them of glowing health. An example of how Vendol helped such a person is the public statement from Mrs. Frank Kipp, residing at 35 1/2 North Main street, Mansfield, who says:

"Constipation kept me feeling so bad that neither mealtime nor bedtime were pleasures to look forward to. This constipated condition kept my stomach upset with acid indigestion and most everything lay heavy, turned to sour gas and lifted up in my throat. Felt like there was a lump on my chest and I often had sick headaches and was so nervous that I couldn't get to sleep for hours after going to bed. Next morning I'd feel limp as a rag with no energy to go to work."

"Sometimes I'd feel billy with spots dancing before my eyes and when I stooped over I'd have to steady myself. I had little pimples on my skin."

"About three weeks on Vendol have made a big change in all this because it relieved my constipation completely then all the other troubles seemed to fade away. It has been years since I've felt so good and I can hardly find words to thank Vendol for the grand change and relief it brought."

Give Vendol a chance to relieve your troubles. You can rely upon this famous medicine that has already helped so many people right here in our home town.

Vendol is sold by most all leading druggists everywhere and is highly recommended here by Central Drug Store, corner Main and 4th streets. Come in today and have the Vendol Man explain all about this marvelous compound.

With MARIANNE

WHEN you change your wardrobe in the springtime, you usually like to change your perfume too and get something a little new and different. . . . Thus with this in mind, many of the leading perfume houses are introducing new fragrances just now to harmonize with the season.

If you like the odor of fresh apple blossoms, you'll be delighted with the Apple Blossom bath ensemble, which features' cologne, perfume and dusting powder. . . . You can purchase the perfume in a gay half ounce bottle, decorated with tiny pink blossoms and set 'neath a white trelis entwined with blue blossoms. . . . The smaller dram bottles also are decorated with the flowers, and they're packaged in pink and green boxes shaped like sprays of apple blossoms. . . . These same pink and white blossoms form a design on the cologne bottles as well as on the pale green boxes and shakers of powder.

Something a little different in the perfume line is a new scent called Straw Hat—one whiff of it makes you feel as though you're driving through the fresh countryside on a warm summer evening. . . . This fragrance (which can be had in both perfume and cologne) comes in streamlined bottles topped with a kind of straw-burlap to represent a farmer lad's summer hat.

One of the most captivating, spicy perfumes is Blue Carnation, recently introduced by a famous house of toiletries in Paris and New York. . . . Here the actual flower than any other carnation perfume I ever scented, this fragrance comes in cologne, perfume, dusting powder, talc and soap in gay pink and blue packages. . . . The same perfumers are also featuring their popular Fleurs d'Amour odor now (the one used in those favorite pressed powder compacts) in a complete bath ensemble in colorful bright red containers.

DO YOUR new spring togs need a bright red lipstick to complement them? Then the new Life Red shade is just what you're looking for. . . . Taken from the tone of the bright red cover of Life magazine, this warm, true-red lipstick will do much for your springtime personality—Oh yes, and there's rouge to match it.

At the end of a long, hard day, most of us need a little something to freshen us up and relieve that tired weary feeling. . . . Herbal eye pads will do much for resting tired eyes, and you can buy them in pillbox packages of three—they can be dampened and used repeatedly. They contain a blend of herbs which is soothing to tired eyes. . . . Then while you have these eye pads on, you might relax in a tub, made especially invigorating by bubble bath. . . . One of the best kinds on the market is a liquid, scented with gardenia, pine or bouquet fragrance—and to give you an example of the foam it forms, you might recall Joan Crawford's bath in "The Women," because she used the same kind.

ANY DRESS will take on added glory with a set of crisp white pockets and collar. . . . Made of embroidered organdy and lace, these perky little combinations come with collars for a variety of necklines and pockets (in round, square and heart shapes) to be tied about the waist with grosgrain ribbon. . . . Pink collar and cuff sets are being featured for blue and black frocks this spring, too.

JUST about the cutest things in bathtub toys for kiddies are those gay ones made with bright colored sponge bodies and soap heads. . . . There's Mr. Dan, a black faced minstrel man, wearing an orange swallow-tailed coat. . . . Aunt Jemima wearing a white apron and a bandana tied round her soapy head. . . . A clown dressed in bright red and blue. . . . and a South sea island girl, toggled out in a red and green grass (sponge) skirt with a couple of sponge leis around her neck. . . . I'll wager Junior or Sister won't mind that daily bath a bit if there's one of these funny little toys in the tub!

Note: The styles described above are available in Mansfield shops. You can learn where they may be obtained if you will telephone Marianne at The News-Journal between 1 and 2:30 p. m.—Canal 4251.

Daughters Play Cards At March Social-Affair

Rizzo, while Mrs. Joseph Forwith won the pinocle prize. The door prize was won by Mrs. A. E. Weakland.
